

PRIVACY

Main respects the personal privacy of visitors to our website. Our privacy policy describes the kinds of information we may collect from you and how it is used. Our privacy policy is subject to change at any time, and we encourage you to periodically review this page for any updates.

Main may collect personal information provided by you—name, address, demographic information, etc.—and store those details in a database. The collected information may be used to generate follow-up messages and responses that are tailored to your request. If you have not chosen to “opt out” from our mailings, we may also use the collected information to send you periodic newsletters and other mailings. Main does not sell or rent your personally identifiable information to anyone. If you have any additional questions or would like to be removed from our database, please e-mail hello@main.agency.

When you visit the Main web site, your web browser software may automatically provide us with information such as the browser name and version, your computer type and operating system, and the previous web site you visited if you clicked to our site from another. We also automatically determine your Internet IP address or your Internet service provider’s IP address. Any of this information may be recorded in our system logs or securely collected on our behalf via third-party services. This information will only be used internally in anonymous, aggregate reporting.

Certain parts of our web site use cookies. A cookie is a small piece of data sent to your web browser and saved on your computer. On subsequent visits to our site, your browser will automatically retransmit the cookie data to our site. We may use cookies to customize the content shown to you, to provide conveniences to your browsing experience, or to track aggregate traffic trends on our site. You are not required to accept and store cookies to browse the Main web site.

Our web site contains links to other sites. Main does not share your personal information with these sites, nor do we have any control over the privacy policies of those sites. We encourage you to learn about the privacy policies of the companies responsible for those sites.